Women In Golf Foundation, Inc.

Please join us in welcoming Jamie Taylor, a true innovator in the golf industry, to the Women In Golf Foundation (WIGF) family. Jamie brings 25+ years of golf experience (playing, instruction, facility management and leadership) to her new role as Interim Executive Director for WIGF. Her wealth of golf industry knowledge and extensive network will be instrumental in expanding the reach and support that WIGF provides for women and youth.

Jamie was a scholarship golfer at Gannon University, where she received her Bachelors in Business Administration and her MBA. She has launched multiple education, training and outreach programs while working with the LPGA and golf courses in Ohio and Florida. Her entrepreneurial ventures include Founder/CEO of JT Mobile Training consulting practice and the impressive Black Golf Directory.

Jamie's personal brand in golf is built on her mission "to help as many professionals and organizations as she can to change the landscape and culture of golf". She will play a key leadership role with WIGF as we grow our support for girls, collegiate women, and executive women.
